

9月30日（金）令和4年度前期終業式

Hello, everyone. Today is the last day of the 1st half the school year. Did you have many a lot of happy days?

At one of the milestones, “FUSHIME” in Japanese, in the school life like today, it is important to look back the days you have spent so far. You can see both happy moments and difficult moments. Both the happy memories and the difficult memories will give you the energy and the power to move forward to your brightening future.

We will have a short break before the next term. Please have a good rest, charge your energy, and get ready for the coming seasons, full of important events.

I hope all of you will have happy, fruitful and rich autumn days.
Good luck.
